

DroneGuarder Announces App Launch on Google Play

DroneGuarder Inc has announced the launch of their DroneGuarder app on Google Play, enhancing the functionality for login and flight control including autonomously and controlled security sweeps.

DroneGuarder has secured new funding for both DG Rescue and DG Intruder product developments through to commercial release, with DG Rescue being released in April 2018.

DroneGuarder hope to sell 5,000 - 10,000 drone units in the first year, and have channels to market already in place, utilising Swellpro's reseller network, driving traffic to websites and partnering with various security companies around the world.

DroneGuarder will also be launching its own affiliate program as they move towards product release, which will give their partners the ability to sell all of their products/services.

Adam Taylor, CEO of DroneGuarder, says "We are very excited that we have secured our financial future through to the production and commercial release of our products, I want to assure all of our investors we are working diligently every day to create and manufacture our ground-breaking drone technology that will change the use of drones forever".
